LUXURY AND SUCCESS

LUXURY & SUCCESS

The inspiration for this body of work was borne accidentally. I was cleaning out a drawer in my home one day and came across a handful of some old Apple product boxes...Ipad, Iphone...I had no use for them, but they were too beautiful to discard. It got me wondering about luxury packaging and so I decided to do an homage to the packaging of luxury brands. Given that I work with boxes, it felt like a natural fit.... as packaging is art. This small catalog is the result of some of the work I have done in this genre. I'm having a good time with it all and I've been astonished at the positive response to it.

There are also a few other pieces in this catalog that are inspired by financial success and other high end luxury brands.

Should you be interested, feel free to reach out. My studio is located in the Los Angeles area.

"My mother was a Louis Vuitton queen. There was always this brown Louis Vuitton pattern in my home growing up and I've always found it uniquely beautiful. This piece was inspired by the old school Louis Vuitton steamer trunks. It was a rather difficult sculpture in that it was so monochromatic. I had to change the sizes and directions of the imagery to give this piece a chance at working. The sides of each box are all painted metallic gold and the corners are painted gold metal."

"Skateboards were an obvious progression to this luxury brand genre. Each of these boards is painted in pearlescents and it glows like a jewel in different light. Many of these boards have the brand patterns subtly in the background."
